

Teaming Up

What Will I Learn?

In this lesson, you will learn to:

- Demonstrate effective team-building skills

Why Learn It?

What if you were the only worker at a restaurant? You had to greet the customers, seat them, take their orders, prepare their food, deliver their food, produce their bill, take their money, give them change, and thank them for coming! That would be exhausting and you might not have many customers because the service would be unsatisfactory.

Why Learn It?

A restaurant is a team effort. Different people perform different roles, all in the hope that customers will feel welcome, enjoy their food, and come back to the restaurant again. In school and in the workplace, you will have many opportunities to work as a team. This requires successful interaction with others. Learning to be a productive member of a team will allow you to accomplish complicated or difficult tasks effectively and efficiently.

Tell Me / Show Me

Working in teams can be fun if the members share common goals and experiences. At the same time, successful teams are composed of members who have different skills and interests that complement each other.

Summary

In this lesson you have learned to:

- Demonstrate effective team-building skills

Summary

Practice Guide

The link for the lesson practice guide can be found in the course outline.

