

Mock Interview

Objectives

- Use internet resources to identify and construct a list of interview questions for a business person in the IT field
- Conduct a mock business interview
- Demonstrate appropriate demeanor and dress as the interviewer
- Constructively critique the mock interview and suggest improvements for the interview process

Try It / Solve It

1. Using available internet resources, identify and list 5 interview questions for a person interviewing for a position in the IT field.
2. In groups of three or more conduct a mock business interview. One group member will be the interviewer, one group member will be the person being interviewed, and the other member(s) will critique the interview. Change roles so all members of the group interview and critique. Document your critique by identifying five positive interview attributes and two recommended changes for the person being interviewed. Dress is an aspect to the person being interviewed.
